

Kim Russo Bio

Kim Russo, also known as “Kim The Happy Medium,” has been able to see the world of spirit since the young age of nine. Growing up, Kim often saw random spirits in her bedroom and sometimes felt their presence walking home with her from school. Not knowing what they wanted, they scared her then. Now she is comforted by their presence, speaking to them more than she speaks to the living on some days.

Kim is as comfortable with her mediumship as anyone with any special talent could be. She explains her ability to understand the voice of spirit as nothing more than being fluent in their language. As Kim often describes, “they do not move their lips when they speak to me; as they relay their messages to me mind to mind or by certain gestures they allow me to see.” Sometimes referring to herself as a translator for the spirit world, Kim also calls herself the psychic journalist, as she prides herself on the accuracy in understanding their language and is most careful to “interview” the spirit coming through during a reading.

Kim is no stranger to reading parents who have lost children. She is the mother of three boys and has compassion as both a mother and a medium. It is Kim's usual practice to give many identifying details, including names and descriptions of the energy with whom she is communicating. Whatever the loss, be it a child, a sibling or a parent, many of her clients have reported having life changing experiences after having a session with Kim.

Kim says “It’s my pleasure and blessing to be the voice for the spirit world. This work that I do brings an amazing peace and closure to many people.” To be read by Kim, or attend one of her workshops, is truly to be in the presence of something rare and astounding and peacefully wondrous.

Kim has been put through a battery of tests and has become a Certified Medium by The Forever Family Foundation and The Windbridge Institute for Applied Research in Human Potential. This foundation is dedicated and committed to proving the existence of life after death by integrating mediumship along with scientific studies.

Kim is the host of the popular TV Show, “The Haunting Of...” currently airing on A&E’s Lifetime Movie Network Channel. This weekly, one-hour series is a follow-up show to the long running series “Celebrity Ghost Stories”. In her #1 show, Kim helps famous celebrities figure out and bring closure and healing to a paranormal experience they’ve once had. “The Haunting Of” series premiere kicked off its 4th season on Saturday, February 28th, 2015 at 9 PM EST with Greg Grunberg.
